About us

VIVAORGANIQUE FOOD:

Provide fresh and tasty food
Build Community
Support the regional economy

At VivaOrganique we believe in a world where food comes from the land. We want you to believe in food again. We want to help you make a change in your life through a healthy and high quality diet, which includes products that are unique in their taste, colour and aroma. Organic food that allow you to rediscover the real taste of food grown in an environment that does not harm the ecosystem and that favours the development of fair trade.

We are always honest, because these are products that we consume at home with our families as well. That is why we keep our labels very simple. Our goal is for everyone to understand our products and the rationale behind them.

Behind the Label

VIVAORGANIQUE
FOOD FOR YOUR SOUL

We are committed to ensure that our products have an exceptional range of flavours, aromas and textures that will enhance your tasting experience. From the outset, we work with raw materials of natural origin that are purchased directly from the farmers on a seasonal basis to guarantee peak maturity and maximum quality.

At VivaOrganique you will always find healthy, and high quality products, made in harmony with the planet, avoiding water and land pollution during the whole production process.

We are committed to develop an innovative and high quality products in rural areas, which often come from sustainable development projects supported by our parent company Agritech Solutions in different parts of the world.

From the Ground

WHY ORGANIC?

HIGHER NUTRIENTS
ALL PESTICIDE FREE
SAVING THE ENVIRONMENT

The Origin

The biggest secret of getting a good product is to work with the best raw material from the start.

That is why at VivaOrganique we select the very best farmlands and establish a close relationship with the farmers who work them, monitoring each step of the growth cycle.

We make sure that at all times they comply with the quality and sustainability standards we seek for our products.

VivaOrganique products are always in season, because we know that the natural cycle of the plants gives the best results in terms of taste, aroma and texture. We guarantee that they have been hand-picked and harvested at their prime, to obtain their authentic taste, colour and smell.

FOOD FOR YOUR SOUL

The Elaboration

Strict quality control and loving care when handling. The VivaOrganique products are packed by hand after passing the most rigorous hygiene and tasting inspections.

We also design the packaging of each product to prevent the loss of its aromas, and we adapt it every day based on the diverse features of the produce harvested.

The Result

When you buy directly from the farmer, you are reinstating a traditional connection between the diner and the producer, enhancing the dining experience by learning about the food's origins.

As a result, our focus is on products that build on family traditions and are made to perfection. We deliver unique and innovative products that create new and exciting taste sensations and allow you to believe in true healthy eating again.

BEYOND COMMERCE BEHIND FARMERS

Organic is a way, a habit and a practice all rolled into one. It refers to a way of growing and processing food.

Sustainability

Farmers are our foundation. On them rests our organic journey. Therefore, understanding the farmer, creating processes that protect their interest and encourage them to be part of the organic way is something we have accomplished over the last few years.

Honey, tomatoes, oil, almonds, nuts... Our preference is to work with local organic suppliers. Our goal is to build a personal and lasting relationship with our suppliers, based on trust and respect. So, they can safeguard their future and we get the best out of their crops.

And if we need ingredients from further afield, we always look for sustainable sources. All our products are vegan, organic and GMO-free.

Organic agriculture respects the balance of nature, contributing to the preservation of the ecosystem. The combination of agriculture, forestry and crop rotation provides a means to preserve the natural space that is capable to support future generations.

Crop production is more efficient because it requires fewer resources. Feeding ourselves directly from crops is more sustainable than using them as cattle feed. And eating a more vegetable-based diet can help reduce our environmental impact.

P R O D U C T S

Travel Taste

We work closely with creators, chefs, collectives, associations and institutions to promote healthy living, physical exercise and mental well-being. We actively participate in campaigns that defend fair trade, sustainable agriculture or the fight against climate change, always trying to do our bit for a healthier life.

We believe that life is pure emotion! A life to enjoy, to laugh, to feel music, art and connection with nature. All these principles can be found in every single operation of our brand, which we will always tell you about on our website and through social media.

RAW HONEY

At VivaOrganique we are passionate about bee honey, which is why we work to offer you only pure, unmixed and unpasteurised honey, with a coarse filtering process so as not to lose the properties and benefits of an organic honey produced by native bees, the Apis mellifera iberiensis.

Each pot is a snapshot that captures the flowers, the climate, and the landscape from which it comes.

Our honeys are made from the nectar of flowers, sap and pollen of different plants from natural areas. Only with a local and sustainable beekeeping we can preserve our ecosystem and guarantee you a honey with an intense and natural flavour.

Every time you eat one of VivaOrganique's legumes you are taking away a piece of human history and the efforts of local small farmers, who thanks to organic farming are recovering legume varieties that were barely grown and are highly appreciated by consumers in search of authentic taste.

LEGUMES

At VivaOrganique we are committed to the future of rural and organic agriculture and to giving legumes back the taste they should never have lost, by using traditional cultivation techniques

VIVAORGANIQUE
FOODFORYOURSOUL

Our legumes are grown on family farms at a slow pace, where they benefit from a wide biodiversity, far from chemistry and pollution, and in special agro-climatic conditions to obtain from the land real healthy and high quality products.

Premium Flour & Grains

For us, the premium quality starts at the source. We work directly with our farmers to sustainably grow grains that have exceptional flavours, high content of nutrients, the perfect colour and the best characteristics to get a great baking performance.

NAT FLO

Organic flour is milled from pesticide-free grain and grown in soil only fertilized by natural substances. The flour is not artificially processed or chemically ripened. It's also been said that organic grain develops more robustly, taking in more nutrients from the soil and thereby making the flour healthier and more nutritious for consumers.
